When treason threatened the existence of the Government, he left the quiet walks of life, and again rallied the loyal citizens of his county around the old flag of his country, and, although surrounded by rebels and sympathizers, who time and again threatened his life, he did not desist from his course. With Col. W. A. Warner, he assisted in organizing the noted 18th Kentucky infantry; was extrusted with guarding the Lexington Railroad when Morgan first invaded Kentucky. His headquarters being at Cynthiana, and having only eighteen men and three officers with him, on learning rank intentions, he rallied to his support

He kept them at bay for more than two hours, killing and wounding large numbers of the enemy, and, finallly, being surrounded, cut his way through their lines with 25 men. He was a second time surrounded and cut his way clear, and made his escape, although he was wounded in the onset. He next encountered the enemy in the desperate battle at Richmond, Ky., leading his regiment (the 18th) in the fight, and one-third of this gallant regiment fell killed or wounded, including meny of the officers. NAVAL RELIC .- The vessel recently discovered buried in the sand on the eastern coast of Orleans, Cape Cod, was thirty-five feet in length, had a tonnage of forty to fifty tons, and was called the Sparrowhawk. This is supposed to be the first transport sent with provisions to the pilgrims after landing on Plymouth Rock, two hundred and thirty-seven years ago. She attempted to get out of Potonomicut harbor, as it was then called, but ran upon a sand bar and bilged, and in the constant changes in the coast there was entirely buried in ten or fifteen years, and so she remained until a few weeks ago, when some sand was washed away and she was discovered. The deck was gone, and the floor was strewed with staves and heads of barrels, and among them a large quantity of bones, some of beef, some of pork, and some of mutton. The hoops had mostly disappeared; they may have been iron, and so dissolved by the action of sea water. All the bolts and spikes and iron used in the construction of the vessel had also disappeared, or so mingled with the sand as to form a kind of reddish stone, quite hard; while the ribs and planks and trunnels of good old English oak still remain quite sound. Memento-hunters are hacking away at her in ch numbers that soon there will be nothing t. The early records of Plymouth colony contain references to the loss of the Sparrow-

THE MOTHER OF GEN. FOSTER .- The mother of Gen. Foster resides in Nashua, N. H., and needless to say that she has full faith in the only one now living of eight en. At the time Gen. Foster was in Washington, N. C., with a small force, surrounded by Hill's rebel corps, and it was suppesed that his communication would be cut off, and that he would be compelled to yield to the superior numbers of the enemy, Mrs. Foster was told by some of her neighbors that her son had surrendered. Her reply to them was: "John has not surrendered. He may be captured, but I know that he will never surrender." The result proved that the confidence of her son was worthily bestowed. Mrs. Foster is about sixty years old, and such a mother as a brave son may well be proud of.

BIFFLE'S GUERILLAS DISPERSED .- The Memis Bulletin learns from Paducah that a pertion of Biffle's guerilla band was surrounded and all killed or taken prisoners, not far from Paris, Tennessee, last Sunday, by a detachment of the Fourth Missouri cavalry and mounted infantry from Paducah. Six rebels were killed and two wounded. It is also stated that there has been considerable activity on the part of the military to clean out the guerillas from that region of country, and every day prisoners have been sent into Co lumbus or Paducab.

DEPARTMENT OF STATE, ] Washington, Aug. 12, 1863. Sin: Whenever the United States have complained of the premature decrees of Great Britain and France, which accorded the char-acter of a belligerent to the insurgents, the statesmen of those countries have answered, favor, for the first time crossed the Potomac liver. Harper's Ferry, with many prisoners, fell into its hands, rather through accidents in preparing its defences than because it was indefensible. Nevertheless, the expectation of recruits signally failed. Gen. McClellan, commanding the now consolidated forces of the Army of the Potomac, was reinforced by fresh levies from Pennsylvania and by detachments.

Laborious and persevering attempts were made to open an artificial channel for the river opposite Vicksburg, as had been done with such signal success at Island No. 10. But the various canals, projected and executed, failed, and only a few small steamers of no considerable power were thus enabled to pass the city. Combined land and naval expeditions were also sent forth, which, with infinite pains and endurance, attempted to turn the enemy's works by navigating the various bayous and so singular a feature of the military topography of the banks of the Mississippi. All these attempts having failed from physical obstacles found to be insurmountable, General Grant occasionally succeed in slipping through the steamers and steam-transports, which ran through the fires of the long line of shore bat-Vicksburg, and its chief supports, Warrenton and Grand Gulf. At the same time the land forces moved down the right bank of the river to a point below Grand Gulf, where they crossed in the steamers which had effected so dangerous a passage. The batteries of Grand Gulf for several hours resisted a bombard-

Such paragraphs are illiberal and mischievous. When Kentucky was invaded by the rebels, Ohio and Indiana troops came promptly to the rescue, and we can say of the Louisville Journal that it thanked them over and again in the strongest language it could command. Still we may presume that they came as much in the cause of their own States as in that of Kentucky, and far more in the cause of their country than in that of the whole three States together. Moreover, Kentucky rallied more troops for her own defence than were sent to her by either Indiana or Ohio. But who thinks of the armies of Meade and Rosecrans and Burnside and Gillmore and Grant and Banks and Steele as fighting cation to John Morganfor the particular States in which they happen to be? Monday, Sept. 21, 1 A. M.—Despatches ust received in this city announce that Bragg, heavily reinforced by Lee, Beauregard, and Joe Johnson, had an engagement with Rosecrans's forces yesterday (Sunday), in which our army was repulsed, and compelled to retreat to Chattanooga. No prospects of further particulars before noon.

THE ILLUMINATION AND CELEBRATION .- The old committees on collection appointed in the different Wards have been released and new ones appointed in their place. Those citizens who have not been called upon will be visited to-day and to-morrow. They are urged to give all that they possibly can toward this auditory object, and to induce their friends, as far as practicable, to contribute. The committees are respectfully enjoined to be diligent and to use every means in their power to raise the necessary amount of funds. The people understand the object. We need not them, for they well know what a happy ect a demonstration of the kind proposed would have upon the soldiers at war with this horrible and desperate rebellion. The army of the gallant General Rosecrans is now confronted by the large and welldisciplined army under Bragg. They are on the eve of a dreadful conflict, it may have already been fought. Let us encourage and stimulate our noble braves. We know that they will meet the enemy fearlessly, but if we do our duty at home we can impart to them a new vigor and new strength. Let us do it. Let us get up a celebration in honor of our recent victories, and send the glad tidings to our soldiers everywhere that their sacrifices and successes are justly appreciated at home. Can we do it in a better and more appropriate manner than the way we propose? We think not; and we believe our good . people think not. Let us have a good time, a glorious ime, that will make glad the brave heart of weary soldier in the land. The poor ows need our words of cheer. Shall they not have them?

FROM ROSECRANS'S ARMY .- We yesterday t a trustworthy and reliable gentleman, W. Benton, Esq., of Indiana, who left Roseans's front on Friday morning. Up to the time of his departure, no fighting except heavy kirmishing had taken place, although a bloody and decisive battle was hourly looked for. The two armies were confronting each other in the mountains near the Tennessee line, about thirty-five miles south of Chattanooga, and the same distance from Rome, Georgia. Gen. McCook's corps, forming the right wing of the grand army, was ordered on termanded they reached him on Friday night, as they had only twenty-four miles to go. He represents the rebel effective strength to be cans's army is strong enough for the impending trial, and the men of fine spirits and full | ing the day, of which we have not yet the report. of hope and buoyancy. He thinks it next to possible for them to overcome the noble crans, who is alive to the importance of ing struggle. This statement infuses new hope into our hearts. He is, as stated above, a gentleman of reliability and of sound judgment. We are fully convinced that what he says is truth and is to be implicitly relied upon. WCOD'S THEATRE.-Miss Marian Macarthy and Mr. Felix Vincent enter upon the second week of their engagement this evening, and produce the interesting and deeply pathetic drama of the Organ-Grinder, written by Waldouer, the author of the highly successful Cricket. This drama has received the highest commendations from the press for its absorbing interest and the artistic construction of the plot, which appeals to the best sentiments of the human beart that cluster around the homely fireside of the poor. In addition to this new drama, we are to-night to have the debut of Miss Kitty Blanchard, a danseuse, who is young, beautiful, talented, and as lithe as a gazelle. We anticipate a great success for Miss Kitty, if half we hear of her attractiveness is not exaggerated.

LOUISVILLE THEATEE. - Miss Thompson sed a very successful engagement at this popular place of amusement on Saturday night. To-night Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Conway appear, opening with the great play of Ingomar the Barbarian. They sustain the leading aracters, and will be ably supported by Macauley, Conner, Mackey, Drake, eaver, and the ladies, Mrs. Laws, Miss Price, Miss Noah, and others. Miss Belle Smyth played Kitty Vinks in the "Dead Shot" splendidly on Saturday night.

COAL.-Coal is now selling at the engrmous price of fifty-five cents per bushel, or twelve dollars a cart load, in this market. It is now beyond the reach of many poor families. We hope to see the river come up, that coal may find its way into our market, that the price may be reduced. We are credibly informed that there is plenty of it in the boats near Pittsburg, ready to start down as soon as the KENTUCKY FEMALE COLLEGE.—This widelynown institution is open for the reception of young ladies. It is beautifully located, in Shelbyville, Ky., and is justly celebrated for its advantages and superior accommodations. Competent assistants are employed by the Principal, and every thing is done for the advancement of the education of young ladies. We know of no better place for them to go.

The Democrat of yesterday morning gives publicity to a rumor that a large rebe force had invaded Kentucky through Pound Gap. As we have no good evidence on the subject, we are inclined to discredit it altogether. There is no considerable rebel force near our eastern border, all rumors and reports to the contrary notwithstanding.

IMPORTANT ARREST .- Yesterday Policemen Wm. Gunsenhouser and James L. Turner arrested John Cosby and Fleming W. Walters for theft. They have suspected the culprits the stealing, line and kept a close watch upon | not a little man. them, but never have been able till now to find full proof of their guilt.

THE STATE FAIR .- A delightful, bracing morning, such nd exhilirating autumn, greeted the last day's exhibition at the Fair Grounds vesterday. There had y frost the previous night, but we do not learn hat it did any damage; the sweet potato vines, as ser report that the tabacco plants seem to have escaped. As Col. Gill and the acheir half-hour living freightage from the city depot ne cars came to the grounds black with passenger and long before midday the amphitheatre was crowded. If the entire week had been as pleasant as the oncluding day of the Fair, it would have been as grea rest and the display of unmatchable stock. The re sult of this Fair has shown the judgment of the Board deciding upon having an exhibition this fall in oposition to the opinion of many good friends of agr settled state of the country would prevent stock. raisers from contributing to the display, and the gen-oral public from attending the Fair. The whole exhibition passed off very delightfully with nothing to nar the enjoyment. The members of the Louisville and Jefferson County Association vied with each other in their courtesies to the officers of the State Board, and the latter are under particular obligations to Messrs. Hyatt, Meriwether, and Parks. Mr. Colin & Ifriend, as Marshal, conducted the affairs of the amphitheatre with great skill. Mr. Samue Mallory, the Register Clerk at Floral Hall, and Mr. Lenox, the Superintendent at Power Hall, were very effective. Mr. William E. Milton, the Assistant Secetary, and James W. Tate, the Treasurer, performed their arduous duties with great assiduity.

PROVOST MARSHAL'S OFFICE REMOVED .-The Provost Marshal's office has been removed into a large house on the east side of Sixth street, between Green and Walnut, near the centre of the square. The Provost Marshal's hours are from 8 to 12 A. M., and 2 to 5 P. M. He boards at the Ga't House, where he can always be found before and after business hours, and we know that he will then be found accomodating to strangers and friends alike. The gallant Colonel's heart is bigger than his for a long time of doing a constant business in body, and that is saying a great deal, for he is > CONTEMPTIBLE.—A highly respectable and trustworthy gentleman informs us that on Saturday evening, as he, in company, was coming down Fourth street, a battery was passing up the street, without arms of any kind, and on foot, and they were rude and boisterous to an unpleasant degree. One of them even spoke insultingly to the gentleman in the presence of the ladies. This sort of thing is too common, and should be corrected. Officers certainly have sufficient control over their men to prevent it. Why is it not done?

3 MILES FROM CRAWFISH SPRINGS. GA., September 19th, 1863. An engagement began this morning at 11 An engagement began this morning at 11 o'clock, with a heavy attack on Gen. Thomas, forming the left wing. At the same time an attack, so light as to be suspected as a feint, was made on the left, composed of the troops under McCook and Crittenden. The fight on ounishing them severely. About 2 o'clock the rebels made a dash at Carter's division, composed of Vancleve's and Reynolds's brigades. Vancleve was struck on the right flank, and, being vigorously pushed, fell back until Carter was broken, and his troops much Scattered. Gen. Thomas, on the left, and Davis on the right, threw forward their forces vigorously toward the gap, and, after a hard fight, recovered the ground. The fight on the extreme right has been light, the enemy apparently proposing to get between us and

The general engagement ended by 4-P. M., but about 6 Palmer, who had gathered the scattered forces, and Negley, who had been sent from the right flank to feel the centre, pushed forward and re-established the line, as it had been before, parallel and along the Chicamanga Creek. The country is level, thickly overgrown with small timber and there is less of it than ever before. But it is brush, which renders it unfavorable to the use of artillery, and very little has been used. The casualties in wounded are heavy, but surprisingly light in killed for so heavy a usketry engagement musketry engagement.

The engagement on the left was one continuous roll of musketry for hours. No general officers were injured. Cols. Heg and Bradley, commanding brigades, were wounded. Col. Jones, 36th Ohio; Col. Carroll, Maj. Vannatts, 10th Indiana, wounded. Lieut. Jones, company A, 10th Indiana, killed. Lieut. Colonel Hunt, 4th Kentucky; Lieut. Colonel Maxwell, 2d Ohio; Lieut. Birnam, Lieut. Ludlow, Lieut. Fessenden, battery H. 5th artillery. Lieut. Fessenden, battery H, 5th artillery; Lieut. Floyd, battery I, 4th artillery; Captain Brown, 51st Illinois, wounded. Lieutenant rles, A. A. G. Starkweather's brigade,

The 79th Indiana captured a full battery. Battery H, 5th Artillery, was lost and recaptured. The fight is not yet over, but will probably be renewed to-morrow. Rebel prisoners taken represent the corps of Hill, Polk, Johnson, and Longstreet in co-operation with Bragg. Our men are in the best spirits and eager to begin anew:

[Special to the Post.] Washington, Sept. 19. All the Richmond papers of the 16th and 17th received here mention that Lee's army has been in line of battle for some days, but efensive. This would seem to indicate that Lee is not strong, and is accepted as confima-tion of the reports that troops have been sent South from Virginia.

Another special to the Post, dated the 19th, says the railroad north of Washington, which was carried away, has been repaired.

WHY THEY ARE "GREENBACKS."-Most people have very little idea why the notes of our national currency, generally known as "greenbacks," are printed in green colors. The reason, as given by an exchange, is this: Ever since the adoption of paper currency has been the constant study of the bank note engravers to get up some plan of printing bills that could not be counterfeited. In this they only partially succeeded till, as late as 1857, a man named Stacy J. Edson invented a kind of green ink, which he patented June 30th of that year. It is called anti-photographic ink, because it cannot be photographed on account of its color, and cannot be dislodged by alkalies by the counterfeiters to get a complete fac simile of the bills. And, as it is a secret known only by the American Bank-Note Company and the inventor, it is impossible to counterfeit the greenback money. It was used by many banks before the war. te engravers to get up some plan of printing t was used by many banks before the war, but was never a leading feature in the bill; but even if the composition of the ink was known it would be of no use, as the work could not be copied from the genuine bills with any kind of ink. The date of the patent can be seen on all the bills, in small print.

MR. TOOMBS'S LETTER.—The recent letter of Mr. Toombs, on the rebel currency, is strongly denounced in the Virginia papers. The Lynchburg Republican says: Toombs says we should issue no more paper money. Very true, and Mr. Memminger would no doubt be rejoiced to stop his money mill. But what is to supply its place? How are the expenses of the Government to be defrayed except by paper issues? It can not be done, and the result of all of Mr. Toombs's the left was very desperate. The enemy was repulsed, but, on being reinforced, regained the position, from which they were subsequently driven after a desperate engagement of an other men will not learn the important fact, the distribution of the enemy, and weaken our cause abroad. It is a great pity that he and some other men will not learn the important fact, the distribution of the men will not learn the important fact, the distribution of the men will not learn the important fact, the distribution of the men will not learn the important fact, the distribution of the men will not learn the result of all the distribution of the mean of the mean that the distribution of the mean that the mean that the distribution of the mean that th Thomas charged them for nearly a mile, thing we know. Truth is sometimes more injurious than falsehood, and is always so when professed friends give improper information to our enemies. Mr. Toombs tells us nothing we did not know before, and proposes no prac-tical remedy for the evils of which he com-plains. He is, therefore, one of that class of grumblers who is doing our cause much harm and no good.

> [From the Richmond Examiner, Sept. 11.] DESERTIONS FROM THE SOUTHERN ARMY -The Northern public and Government, if the press of the United States is their true exponent, now base their chief hopes of success on the stories, with which they are every day recorded of descriptors or a large scale from the galed, of desertions on a large scale from the armies of the Confederacy. These stories are false, in so far as they represent the hideous there is less of it than ever before. But it i entirely true that the great source of all the calamities of the South has been from this worst of evils. Under the delicate name of absenteeism it has found excusers and defenders. Even the public press has been sometimes so depraved as to argue that those "absent without leave" were not deserters—that they were, in fact, rather better men than those who were never absent without leave, because it was their excessive and noble love of home and of their females which wrought on them to such a degree as to overcome the love of country and duty. Unhappily the Govern-ment and military authorities have practically confirmed this charming view of the absent. Until within the last few days no deserter, even if accidentally caught, has been punished by anything worse than a little confinement. The consequence has been that the South has not yet had any real army at all, but only some volunteer associations, kept together by the spirit of the few and the coaxing of the many. Another consequence has been the loss of Missouri, Kentucky, Tennessee, Louisiana, Mississippi, and two-thirds of Virginia, the devastation of the fields, the conflagration of farm-houses, the depopulation of the vil-lages, the outrage, murder, and subjugation of the citizens in a region containing the re-

All our calamities, financial, political, social, private, and public, of Government, and of individuals, are results of an imperfect defence against the enemy. Our defence has been imperfect, because the line has not been long enough, the ranks unfilled, the column not deep. Why was that? The country placed in the hands of the Executive six hundred thousand men. They have been enrolled and placed under arms. Only a portion of them have remained. The rest have deserted, and the Executive has refused to employ the only means known in human experience to prevent them from so doing. This is the cause of our suffering. This is the error which will produce the catastrophe. This policy, long persisted in, is the awtul fact which weighs on e heart of every reflecting man. Unless this policy can be altered, the subjugation of these States is nearly certain. It is stupid, it is wicked, to enlarge the circle of conscription, when those in the prime of life are not re-tained after they are enrolled. But, if they are recalled and retained by an inflexible ap-

The Confederacy already possesses an army on paper) beyond its power of support. It would this hour outnumber the enemy on every field, if no miscreant was absent without leave. Within the last ten days ten deserters have died their just death. If the fact is an indication of a new rule in the Confederate grapts gray rone peed fear for the fits of the erate army, none need fear for the fate of the death; the army will fill when it is ascertained that the soldier who remains at home does so to dig his grave.
Why is no European army troubled with the disease of desertion? Simply for this reason—that a deserter, if taken in ten hours after leaving the camp, is shot, and if not caught until twenty years after leaving camp OUR NEW ORLEANS CORRESPONDENCE. NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 5, 1863. Major General Grant arrived in this city on the 3d, and met with a very enthusiastic reception. A large concourse of officers and civilians greeted his arrival at the St. Charles botel, and at night the mansion of General Banks was thronged by citizens and soldiers to do him honor.

On the morning of the 4th, in company with Gen. Banks and their respective staffs, Gen. Grant reviewed Gen. Washburn's division at Carrollton, and the review was impos-ing and highly satisfactory. After the review, General Grant met with what was feared at the time a very serious accident. A fiery horse, to which he was unaccustomed, ran away with him and fell from a rebound against a carriage in the road The General was picked up insensible and taken to the Carrollton Hotel, where his left side was found to be badly bruised. At 12 o'clock at night the surgeons did not fear fatal consequences, yet could not tell with certainty the extent of his injuries. No bones were

The Whiskey Erysipelas.—The scarcity of quors of all kinds in this State has started liquors of all kinds in this State has started up as arrant a race of rogues as ever breathed. They doctor whiskey. They make whiskey out of apple brandy, and French brandy out of whiskey, and all sorts of brandies and wines out of ingenious concoctions of all three. The whiskey—that is to say the most of it—is now composed of about thirty per cent. of genuine alcohol, and the rest is made up with water, vitriol, and of coloring matter.
